TESTING

Usability Testing

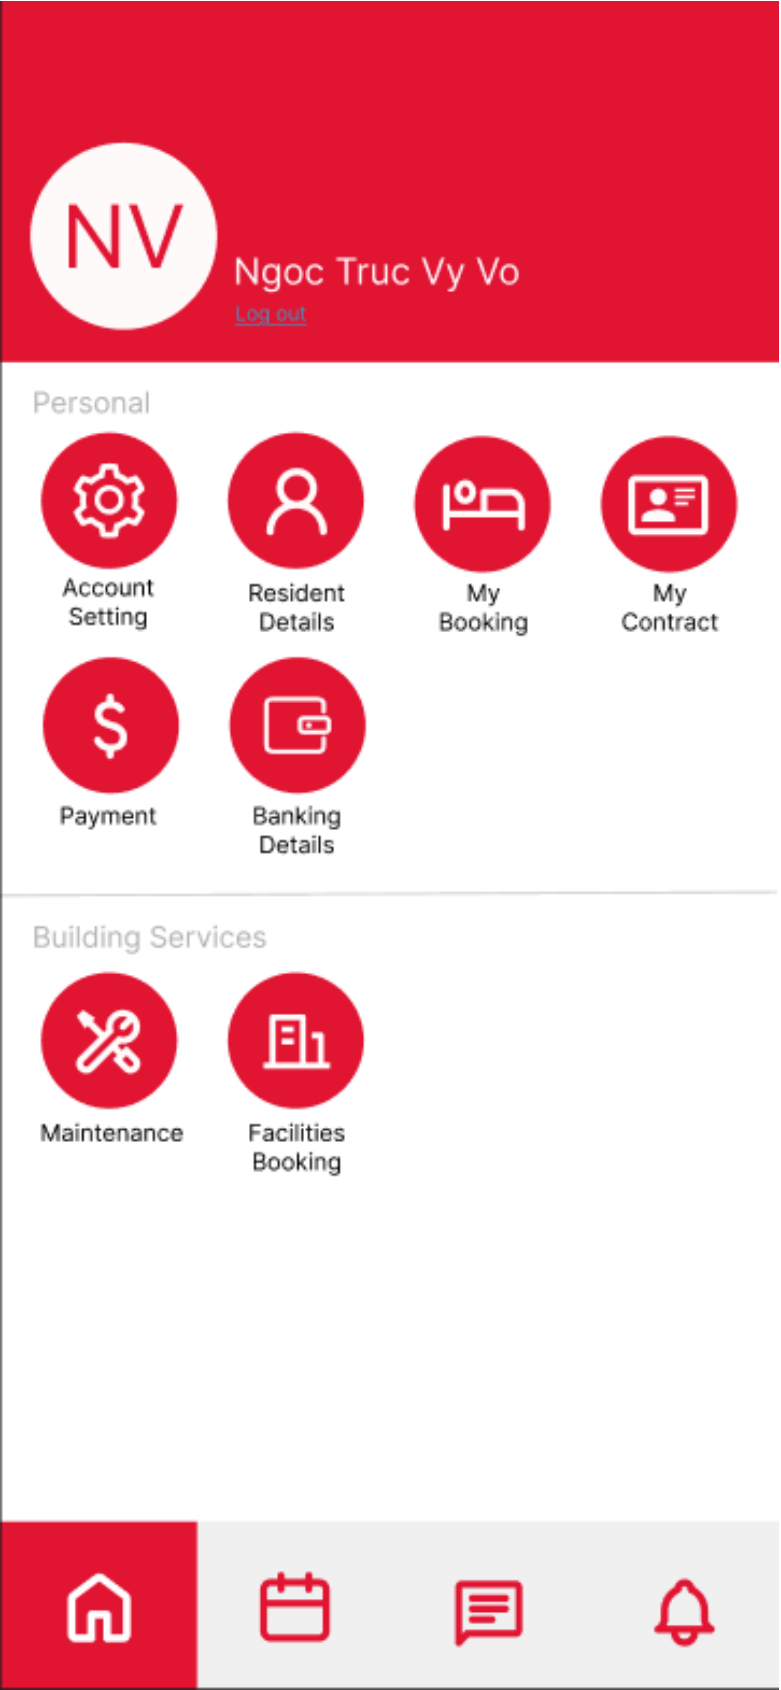

Summary Insights:

Participants completed the task but showed hesitation due to similar section names like My Booking and My Contract. Most relied on intuition to find the right option. The test revealed the need for clearer labeling and layout hierarchy, though users responded positively to the overall visual design.

Success

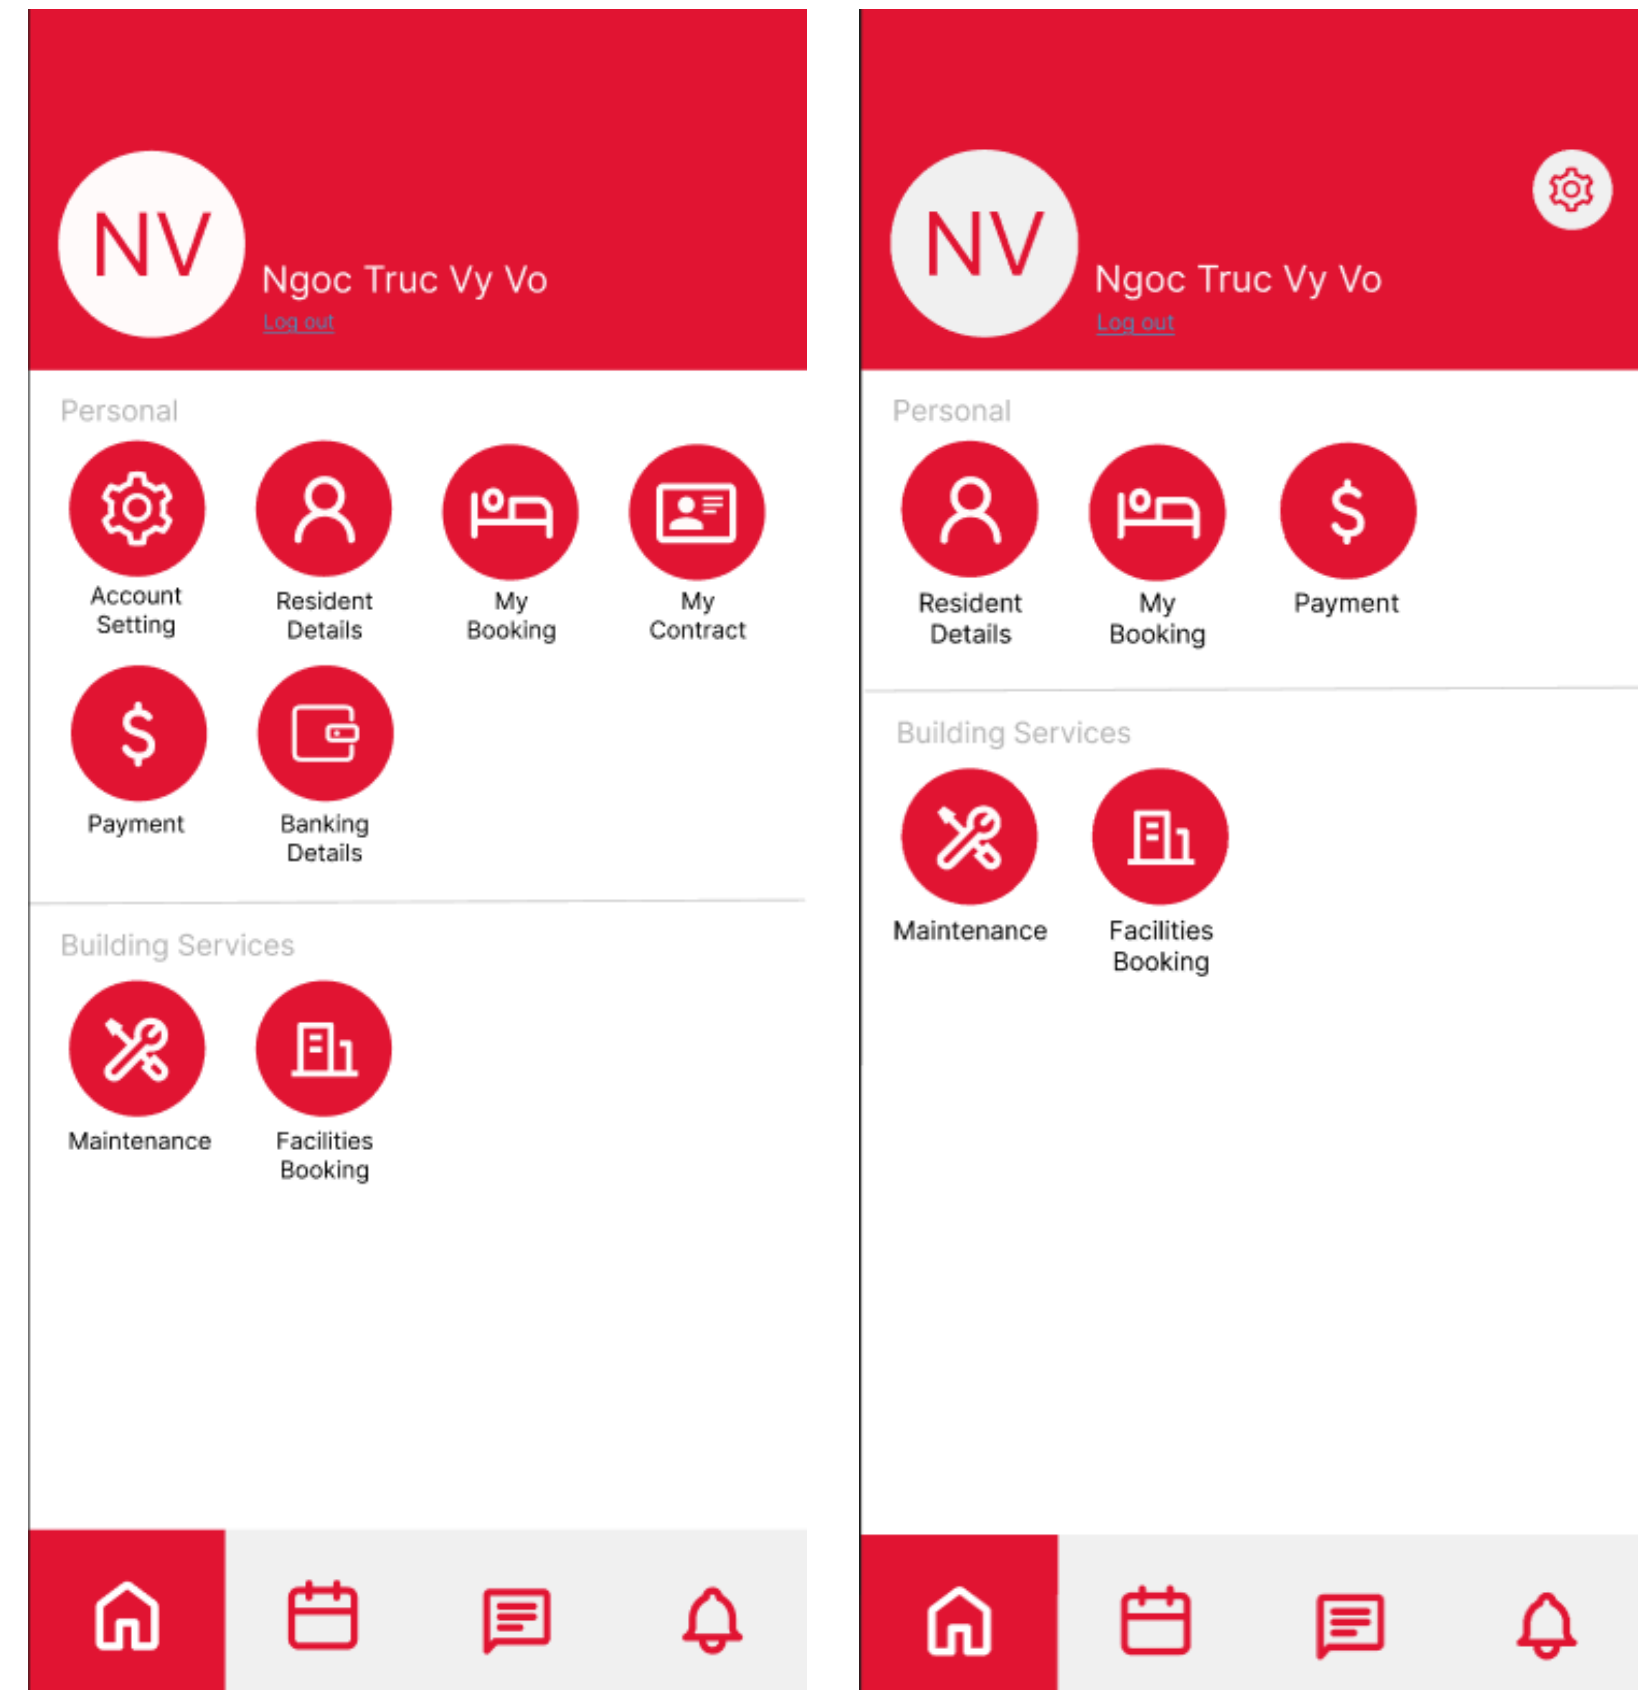

Fail

CHANGES

- Simplify and merge section
- Change the location of setting section

TESTING

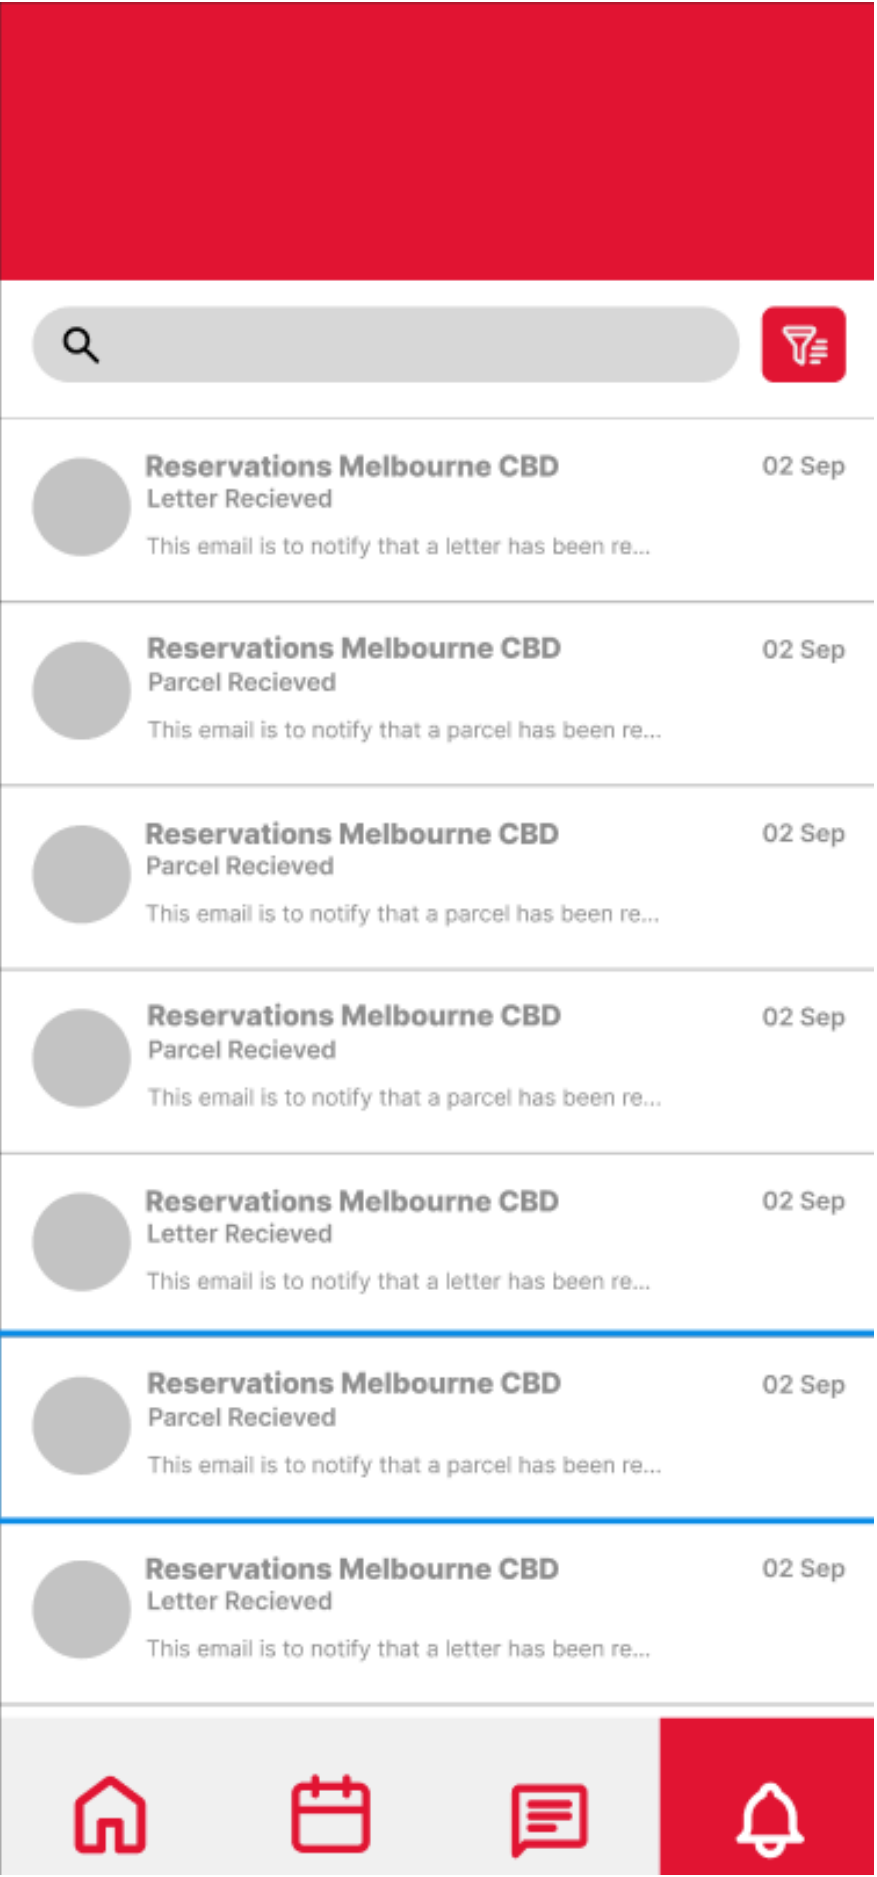

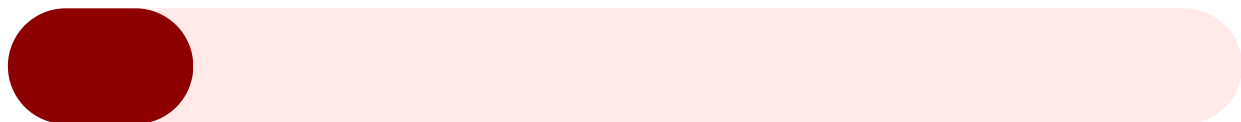

First Click Test

Summary Insights:
I asked participants where will they click if they wants to find a mail to track their parcel. The result shows that people mostly click at the search bar.

Search bar

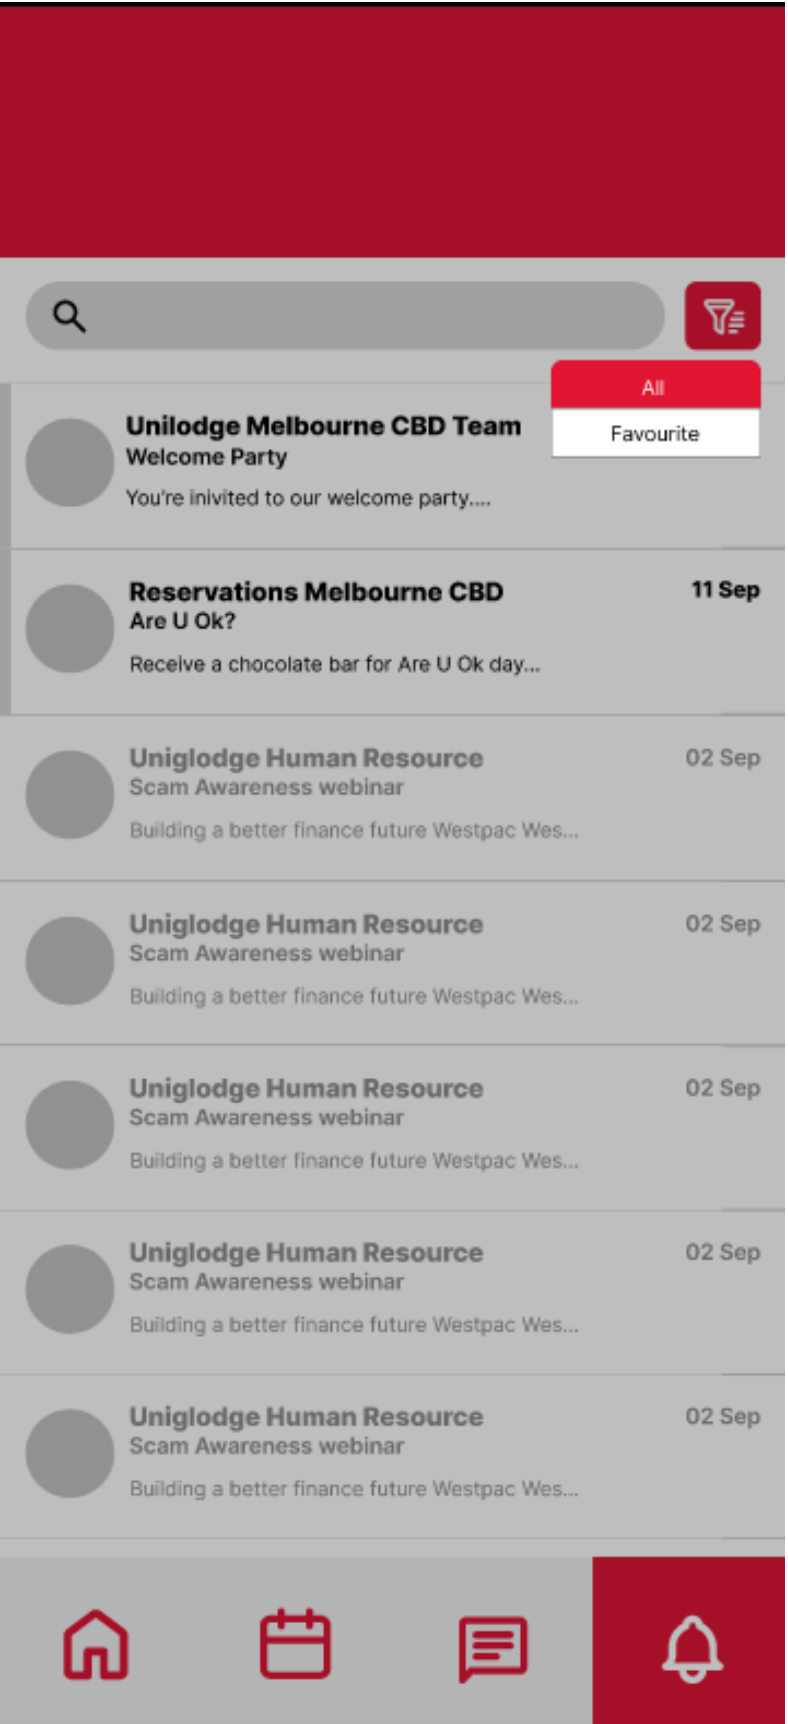

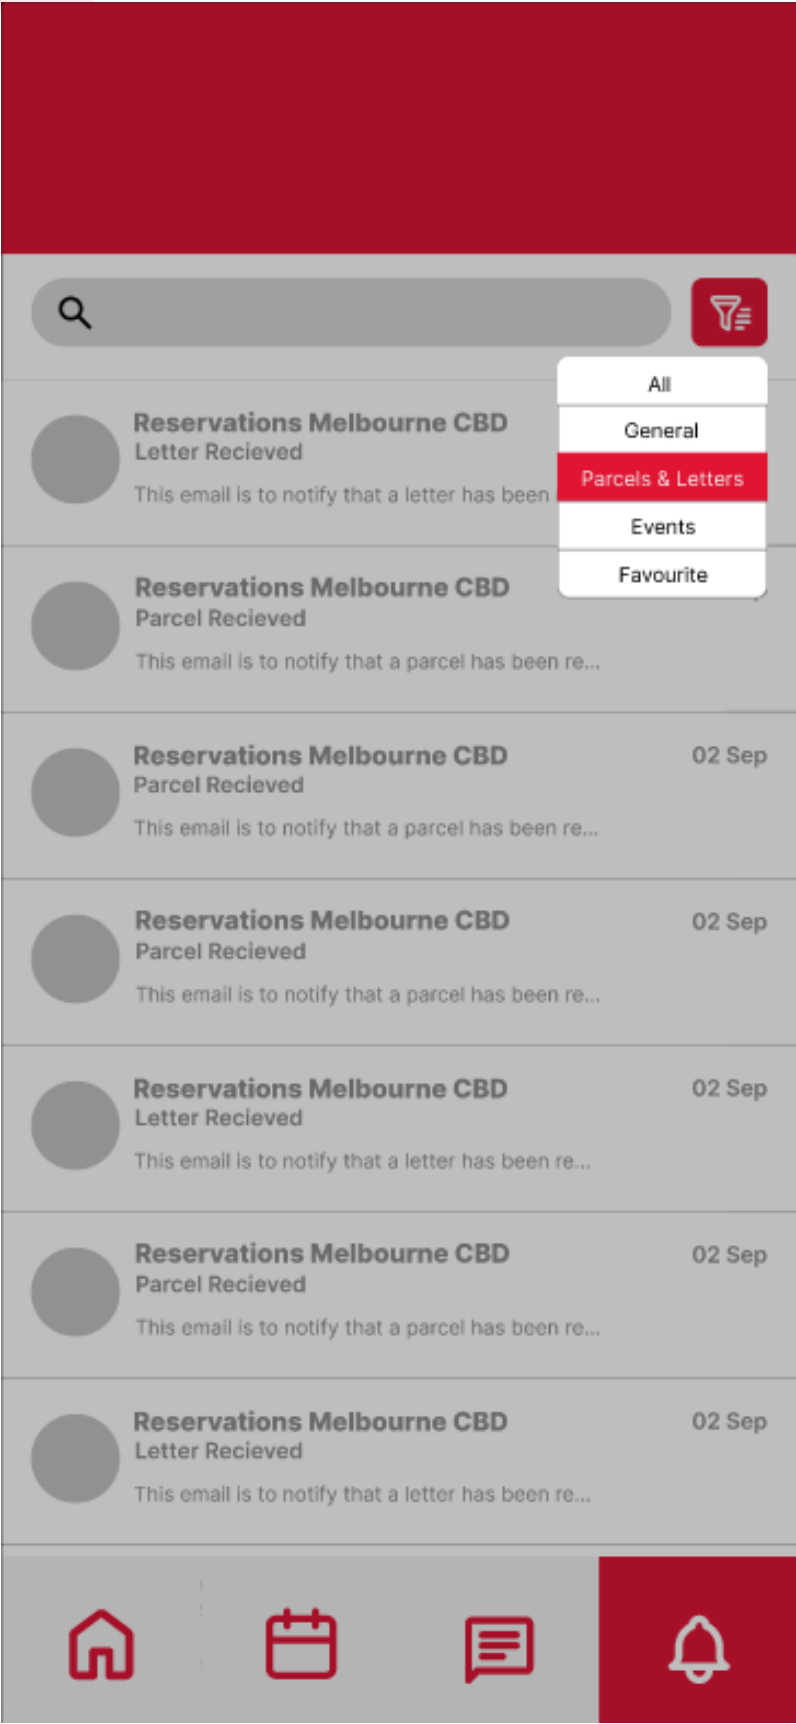

Filter

CHANGES

I still decide to keep filter feature, but instead of having different category for each mail, I only keep favourite section

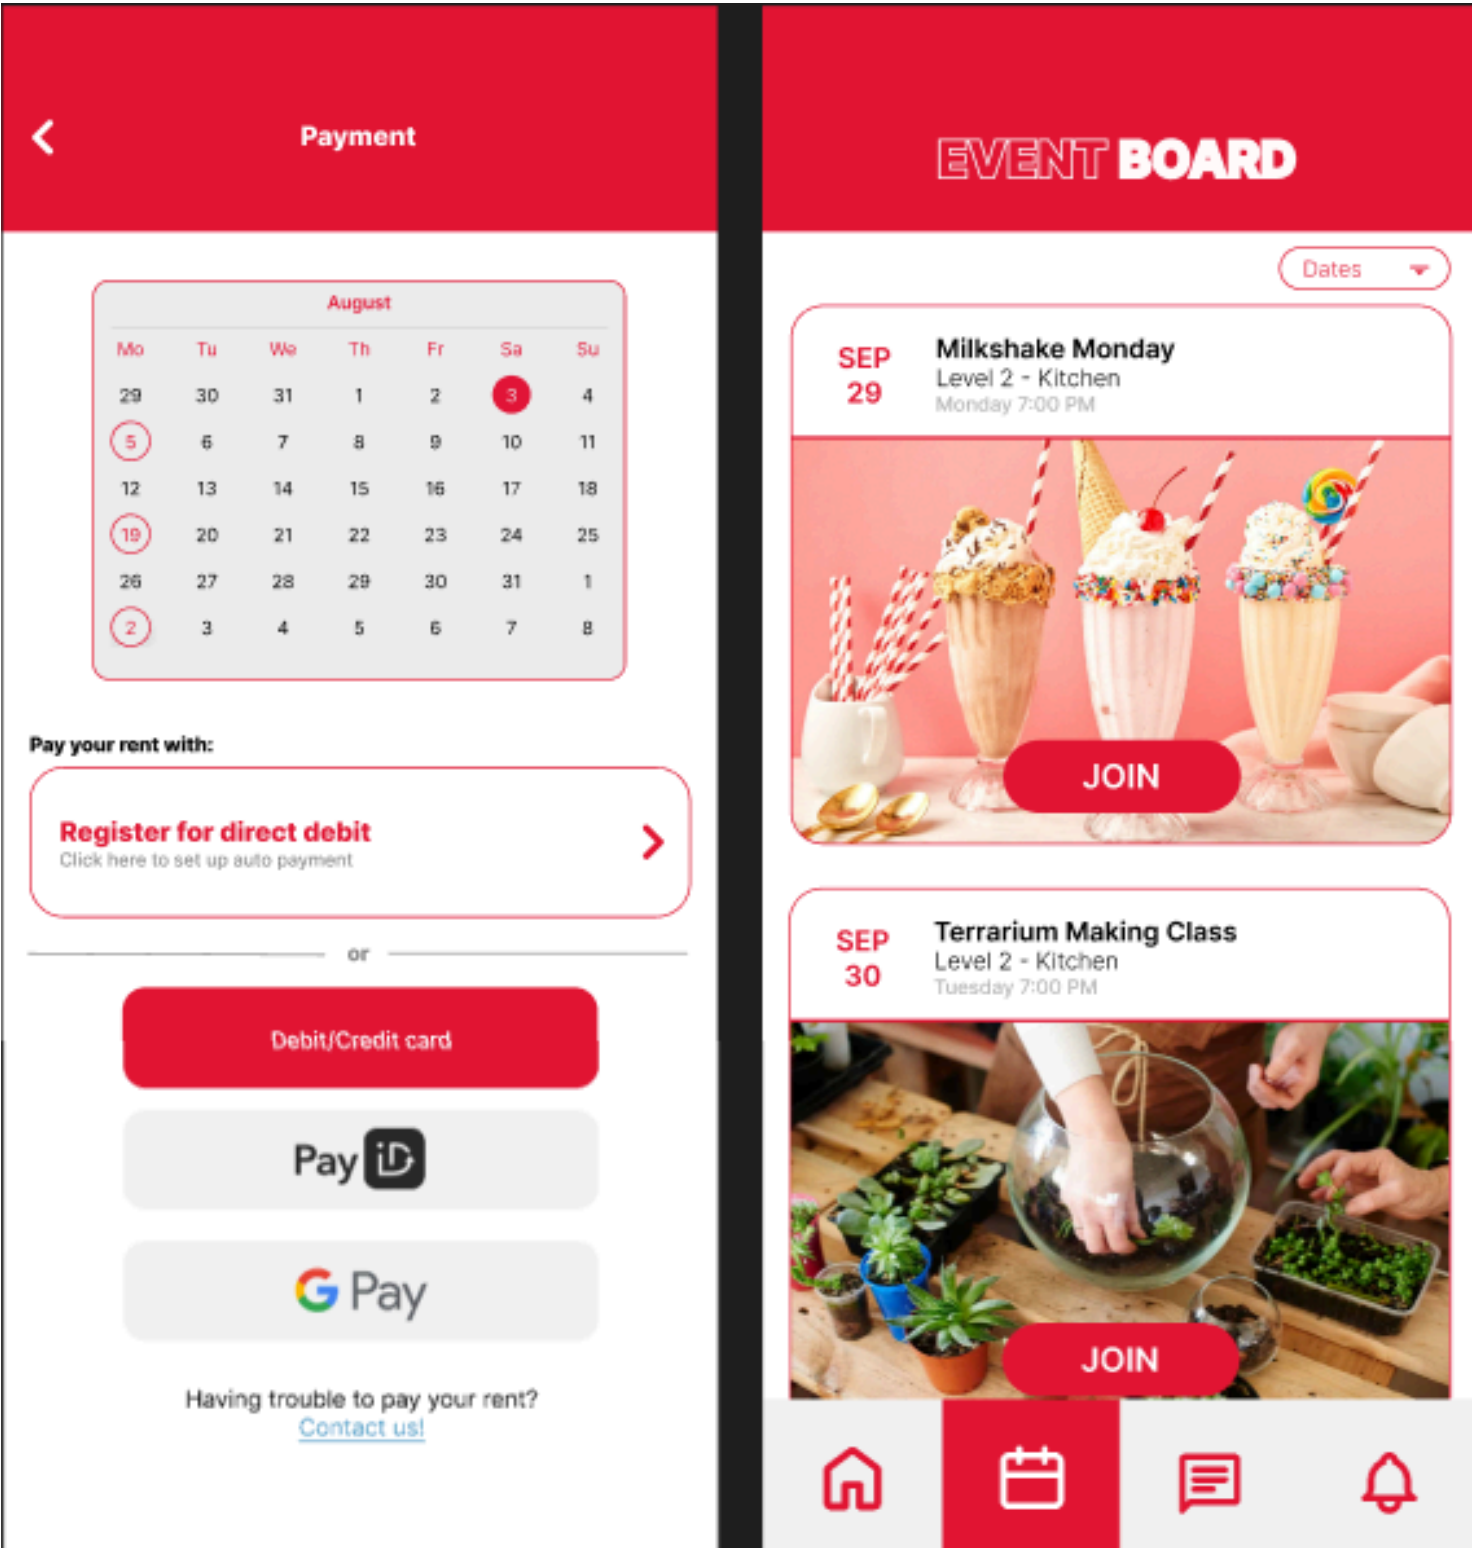

TESTING

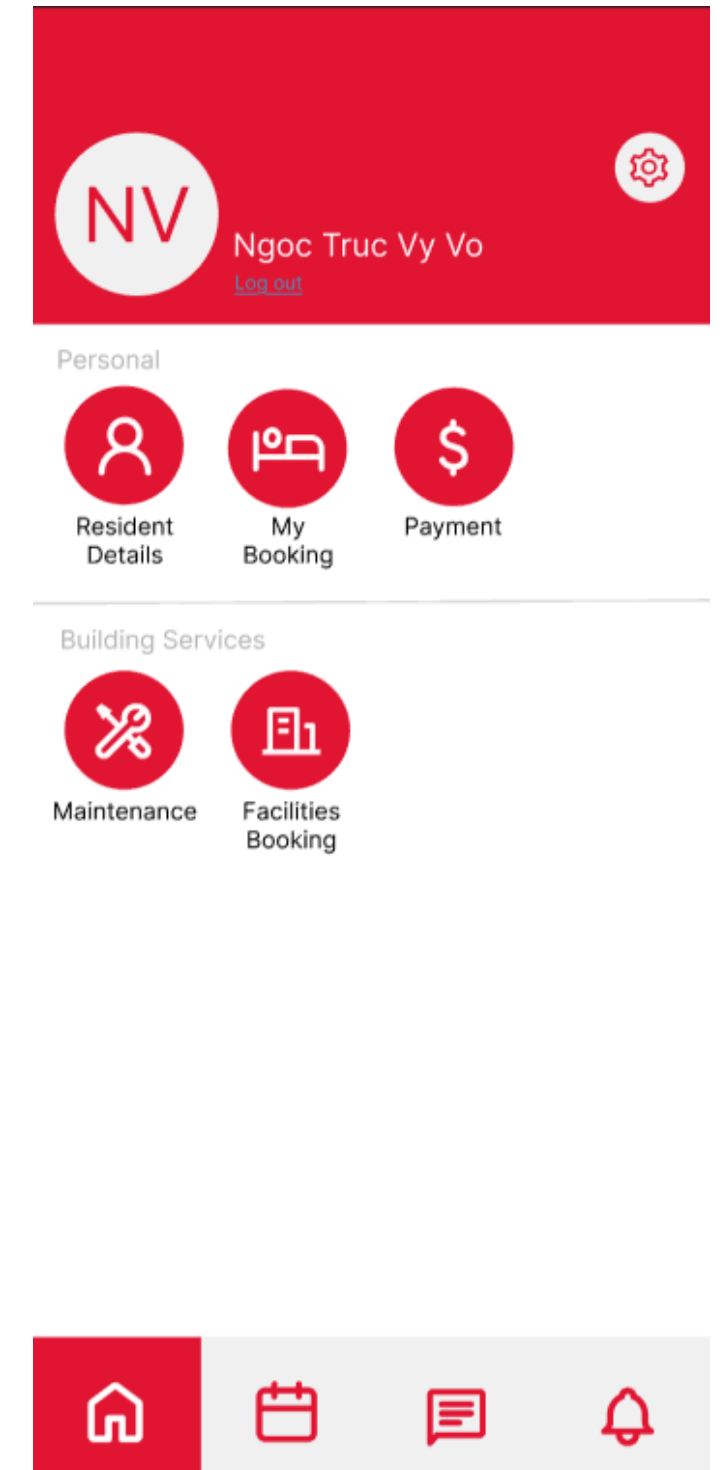

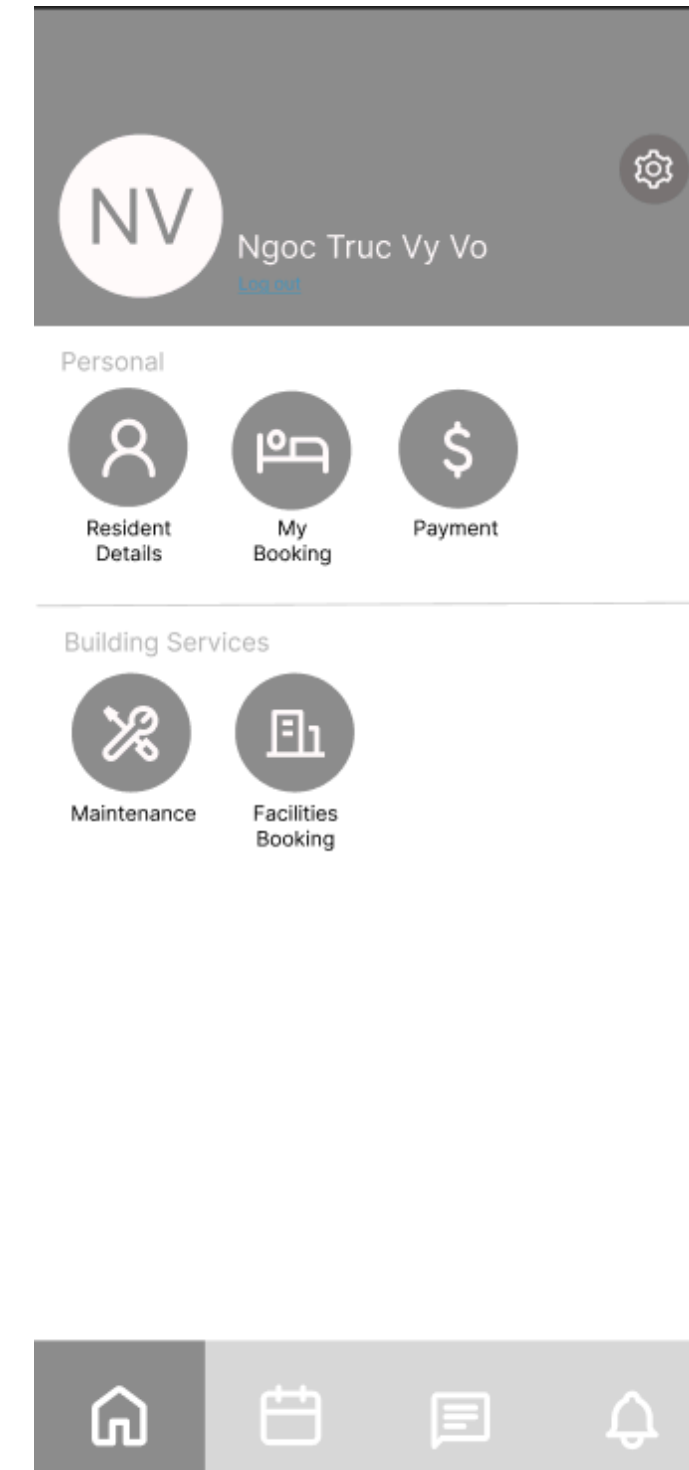

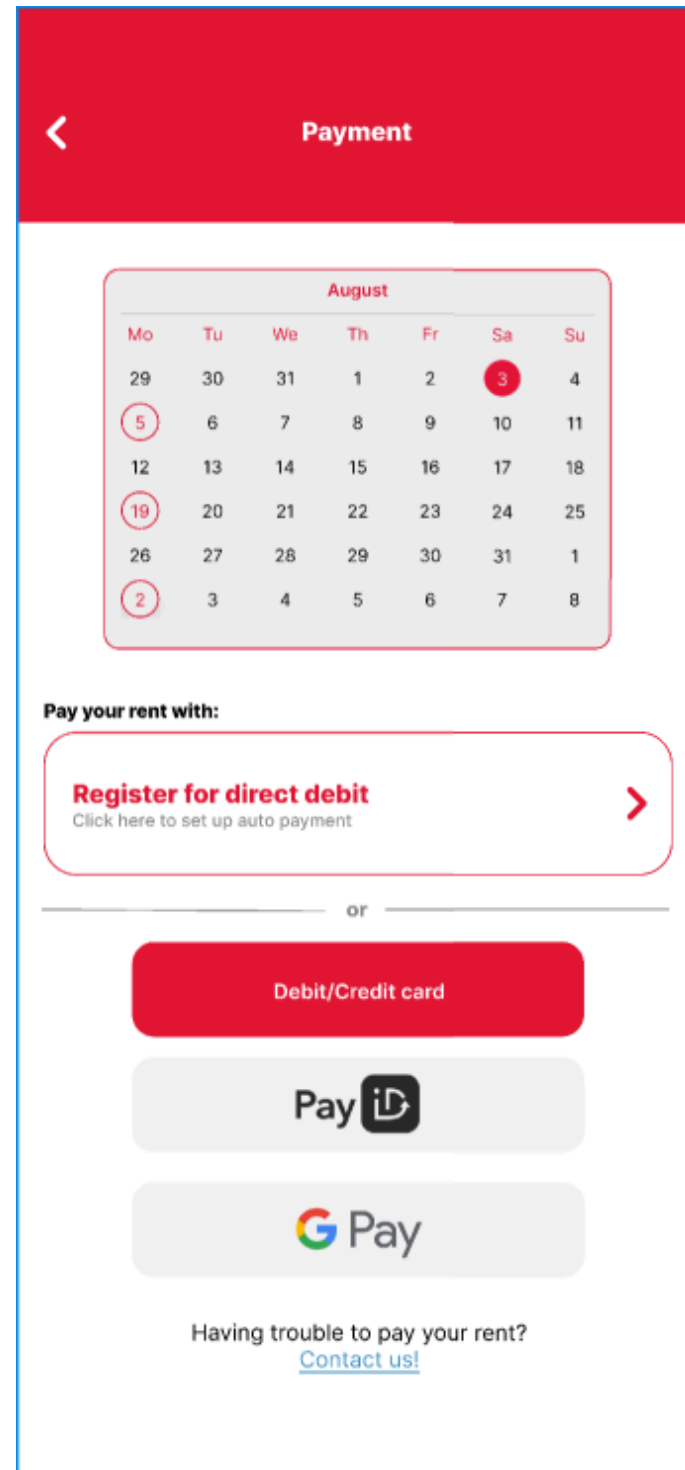

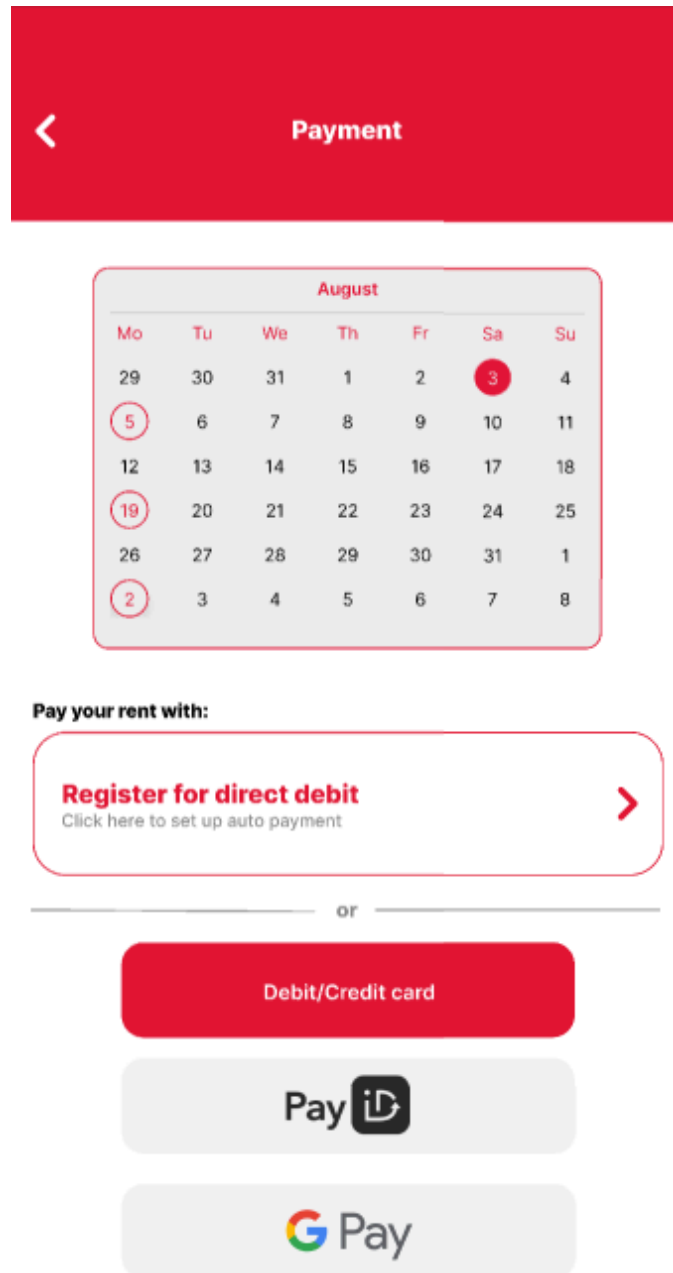

5 Second Test

Summary Insights:
Participants completed the task successfully, they all have a clear vision about what's the interface purpose and recognize how to use. The test were made on payment screen and event screen

OTHER CHANGES

Ethical risk

1

Language bias -simple/straightforward English and icon-based/image based cues

2

Empathy in design - Contacting with supportive service to get help

3

Inclusive - Multiple payment options, push reminders

4

Ethical Communication - Reporting options, message moderation, and community guidelines are integrated to maintain respectful communication.

5

Privacy Concern - Automatically log users out after inactivity to protect from unauthorized access.

6

Accessibility - High contrast color

REFLECTION

- I learned to apply empathy not only in visuals but also in small interactions, like support options for users under pressure.
- Not get too attached to the design
- User testing taught me how small design details (labels, layout) greatly impact clarity.

Future Plan

- Enable dark mode
- Develop report user feature
- Enable different language package
- Provide feature that can connect with certain user
- Live chat with reception

The background features two large, light pink geometric shapes. One is a triangle on the left side, and the other is a larger, more complex shape on the right side, both with rounded corners.
